The TDY Location field is where you identify your first per diem location (TDY or official stopover location).
As you start typing your destination in the field, a list of options appears in a selectable list. Choose your destination from this list.
On this trip, you are going TDY to Denver, CO.
Step 7 of 17:

Use the Traveling By and Time of Day drop-downs to identify how and when you will travel to the TDY location. DTS uses this information to search for transportation reservations, if you need them.
The default setting for Traveling by is Air. The other transportation options are Rail, Rental (i.e., rental car), and Other (e.g., privately-owned vehicle [POV], bus). For this trip, since you are flying, you don't need to change it.
The default setting for Time of Day is Morning, though you can change it to Afternoon or Evening based on the time you plan to begin your TDY. For this trip, since you are leaving in the morning, you don't need to change it.

The TRIP OVERVIEW section automatically updates based on assumptions and the information you entered in the YOUR TDY LOCATION(S) section above. For example, when you indicated that you were arriving in Denver on 9/23/2018, DTS assumed that you were leaving your PDS on the same day.
This section identifies the trip starting and ending dates and locations and trip length. Since most travelers leave from and return to their residence, those options are selected by default.
The Returning By field identifies the transportation mode you plan to use to return from the (last) TDY location, while the Time of Day helps DTS display appropriately timed reservation options later in the authorization process.
If any of the information in this section needs updating, enter your changes. For this scenario, no changes are required in this section.

The first field in the YOUR TRIP DETAILS section lets you identify your trip type. The selection you make will affect your travel and per diem allowances.
The majority of TDY travel is accomplished using the Temporary Duty Travel (Routine) trip type, so the Type field defaults to that option. You can change it if necessary, but for this scenario, leave it set to Temporary Duty Travel (Routine) .

The Conference/Event Name fields let you indicate whether you will be attending a conference or event as part of this TDY. The Not attending a conference radio button is selected by default, but if you are attending conference or event, select the radio button next to the empty drop-down field and then select or enter the name of the conference or event you're attending.
For this scenario, you are not attending a conference, so you don't need to change the default selection.
